PACT - People Activity Context Technology

PACT is a framework that allows us to think about different design situations. Everytime we think of a product or app design we take it through this process.

When we develop a product we need to think of the:

- People using it
- the activities that the app or website is used for
- the context in what it is being used in
- the technologies that are being used while

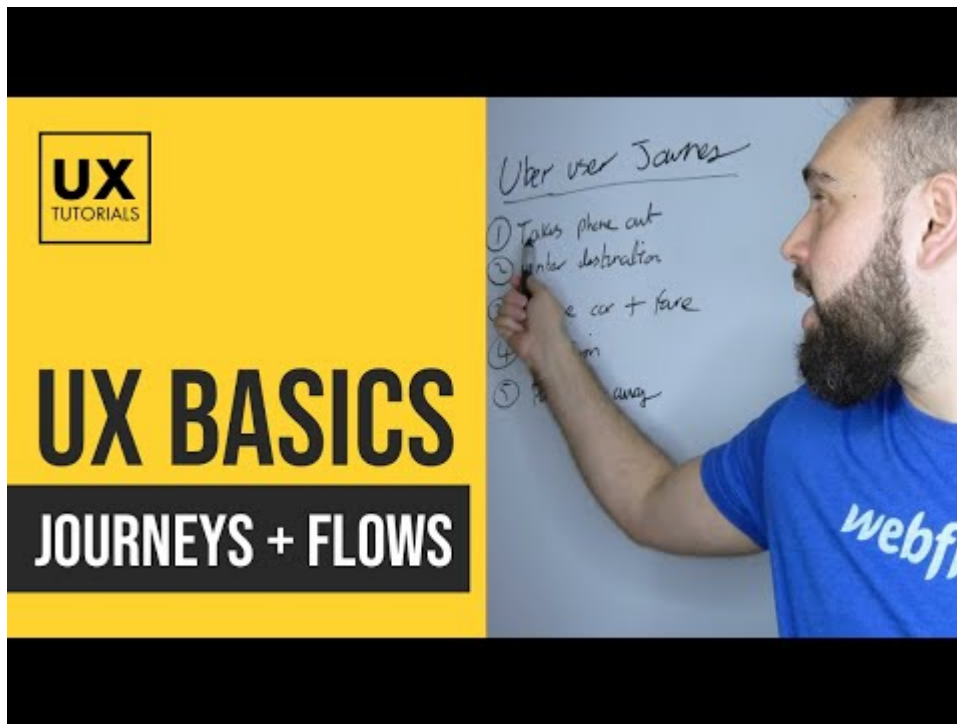

User flow

Breaking up a task into smaller pieces allows you plan better and delegate sections to a time-line and people.

Part of the preparation stage we create a number of diagrams, some of these (but not limited to) are:

- Task flows
- User flows
- Flow Diagrams
- Wireframes
- Wire flows
